All 3 powers operate through a single neck therefore they must coordinate with each other and "cannot" function independently

In 1780 Hamilton had outlined a plan of government with a strong central authority, contrary to our Constitution, creating the first party "the Federalists" Jefferson was irate because the term "Federalists" represented a small government. Jefferson counteracted with the "Democratic Republicans. This destruction of common terms is a common tool of the "elite" to confuse and divide people. Right & the Left that we refer to today dose not exist in history. When Jefferson became president he said that there were enemies of the "Republic" in both the Federalists & the Democratic Republicans and it his duty to weed them out of office.
